Late Major General (Retired) Nambundunga left Namibia 1974 to join the liberation struggle and received his basic military training at Cassapa in 1975. After his basic training, he formed part of the first intake of trainees at Kongwa in Tanzania. Due to his outstanding competencies, Major General (Retired) Nambundunga was selected to become a Military Instructor at Kongwa. He rose through the ranks of the People's Liberation Army of Namibia (PLAN), becoming a Political Commissar and eventually being appointed PLAN Chief of Logistics and member of the Military Council.

In 1990, Late Major General (Retired) Nambundunga was inducted in the Namibia Defence Force (NDF) with the rank of Colonel and was appointed Chief of Staff for Logistics. Major General (Retired) Nambundunga also commanded the Namibian contingent in the DRC operations where he was also appointed as Deputy Force Commander of SADC Forces in the Democratic Republic of Congo. He participated and represented Namibia with distinction in the meetings of the Joint Verification Committee which oversaw the peace process in the DRC.

After his retirement from active military service, Major General (Retired) Nambundunga was appointed Special Advisor to the Governor of Oshana Region by former President Pohamba in 2014 and re-appointed by President Geingob in 2017, a position he held until the time of his death.

Having learned with sadness about the passing of Maj. Gen. (Retired) Peter Nambundunga, President Geingob said: “Major General (Rtd) Nambundunga leaves behind a rich legacy of service in PLAN, and as Army Commander in the NDF.”
